How can I, except some man should guide me? Acts 8:31

Dear Pastor and Church,

Watch-Night Services

We kicked off the new year by gathering together for some great preaching, food and fellowship. A young man in the work here (Frankie) brought a convicting and challenging sermon from the word of God. The Italian buffet then topped all that off with delicious food and our fellowship was followed with games and activities that we had planned beforehand. What a privilege it is to be in the Lord's house at such a time united around His word in order to kick off the new year.

Surgery and Physical Rehab

My hip replacement surgery was at the end of January. Then I was in the hospital for one week, after that I had two weeks at home, and the next three weeks were in a physical rehabilitation center. This is all very typical following a major surgery in Germany. At the physical rehabilitation center, you usually have different physical therapy programs from around 7am to about 3pm. During this time, I usually had 6 to 7 different physical therapy sessions. Since I have a strong competitive nature, I did my very best to break all their records. 😊 But what really matters is the witness and testimony one leaves. I had the privilege to talk to a lot of people about the Lord and His saving grace. To all the doctors, nurses, and surgeons, I acknowledged that the Lord brought me through this operation and has given me my health and strength back. Please join me in prayer for Angela and Garvin whom I met at the physical rehab center. Both have promised to come hear me preach in Ingolstadt sometime in the near future. Thank you for all your prayers in this matter - especially concerning my health. The doctors and physical therapists are amazed how well and quick I am healing up. Praise the Lord for this. During all the weeks of my absence, the church has been moving forward and progressing. The men in the work have stepped up, taking over the teaching and preaching. It is such a blessing to my heart to see the church taken care of and taking responsibility for the things of God and the work of God. This shows maturity and a step towards becoming a fully indigenous work.
